President Donald Trump has been the subject of much speculation and prophecy. Some believe that he was chosen by God to save America, while others believe that he is a harbinger of doom. In his book "Trump Unfinished Business," author David Brody argues that Trump is a modern-day Cyrus the Great, who was chosen by God to deliver America from its enemies.

Brody outlines 10 prophecies that he believes will come to pass during Trump's second term as president, including the defeat of the deep state, the return of prosperity, and the revival of American values.

The Defeat of the Deep State

The deep state is a term used to describe a network of unelected officials who are believed to control the government behind the scenes. Brody believes that the deep state is a real threat to America and that Trump is the only one who can defeat it.

Brody cites several examples of the deep state's alleged activities, including the Russia collusion hoax, the impeachment inquiry, and the COVID-19 pandemic. He believes that the deep state is trying to undermine Trump and prevent him from fulfilling his agenda.

However, Brody believes that Trump will ultimately triumph over the deep state. He points to Trump's record of success in business and politics as evidence that he is the man for the job.

The Return of Prosperity

The American economy has been struggling for years. Brody believes that Trump will bring back prosperity by cutting taxes, reducing regulations, and negotiating better trade deals.

Brody cites Trump's success in the private sector as evidence that he knows how to create jobs and grow the economy. He believes that Trump will use his business acumen to turn around the American economy.

The Revival of American Values

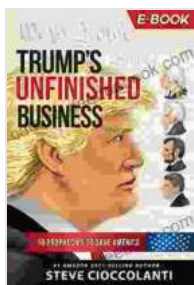

American values have been under attack in recent years. Brody believes that Trump will restore these values by promoting patriotism, family, and faith.

Brody cites Trump's own personal story as evidence that he is a man of faith. He also points to Trump's support for traditional marriage and his opposition to abortion.

Brody believes that Trump will lead America back to its roots and restore the values that have made it great.

David Brody believes that Donald Trump is a modern-day Cyrus the Great, who was chosen by God to deliver America from its enemies. Brody outlines 10 prophecies that he believes will come to pass during Trump's second term as president, including the defeat of the deep state, the return of prosperity, and the revival of American values.

Whether or not Brody's prophecies come to pass, there is no doubt that Trump is a unique figure in American history. He is a man who has defied all odds and achieved great success in business and politics. Only time will tell what the future holds for Trump and America.
